Quality of the Technical Program:

The quality of the technical program in any meeting is largely in the hands of the authors, particularly of the presenters. In order to make the best possible use of the time allotted to your paper, the following suggestions are made to assist you in your preparation.

Continue....

Timing of Presentations

Generally, a 25-minute time period is allocated to each paper. This includes the time required for the introduction of the speaker and questions from the audience. Accordingly, the actual presentation by the speaker should allow 5 minutes at the end for questions. Please plan to limit your presentation to 20 minutes of presentation time.

What to Concentrate on in your Presentation

It is usually not possible to cover all the material in a paper during a 20-minute oral presentation. Therefore, each speaker should concentrate on the highlights. Experience indicates that ten double-spaced pages of text, each containing about 250 words, and ten slides takes about 25 minutes of presentation time for the average unhurried speaker. It is important, particularly for presenters whose primary language is not English, to time themselves in a trial run of their presentation, and adjust the presentation as needed to ensure a timely completion of the paper at the Conference.
